Youth-led community health — Kampala to global dialogue

Our organisation

FairBanks Community Reach is a youth-led community health initiative rooted in Kampala, Uganda. We work alongside Community Health Workers and Village Health Teams in neighbourhoods including Bukoto, Kyebando, Kisaasi, Kamwokya, and Kikaaya — running outreach, screening, maternal support, and health education where clinics alone cannot reach.

We are building FairBanks Community Health Intelligence Platform (FCHIP) — the intelligence layer on our community cascade — so field data becomes early warnings instead of paper that arrives too late. Our delegation would bring that lived, last-mile perspective to Berlin.

Why we seek WHS 2026 tickets

- Represent Ugandan community health practice at a global table — not as observers, but as practitioners who screen, refer, and follow up every week.
- Learn how leading health systems, researchers, and youth networks approach prevention, digital health governance, and pandemic preparedness — then translate lessons for our CHWs.
- Connect FairBanks outreach and FCHIP pilot work to partners who care about primary care in underserved regions.

Learning agenda in Berlin

Theme	Take-home
Prevention & primary care	Shift from reactive treatment to community-level early action
Digital health & ethics	Responsible data use in low-resource, offline-first settings
Youth leadership in health	How young changemakers influence policy and programme design
Maternal & child health	Best practice we can adapt for home visits and ANC follow-up
NCDs & ageing	Screening models relevant to our chronic-care and Gericare programmes
Global health partnerships	NGO, academic, and government collaboration models

What we contribute to the summit

- Stories from real outreach — what works and what fails in last-mile Uganda
- A prevention-first narrative grounded in CHW/VHT practice, not hospital-centric theory
- Experience bridging community dialogues, clinic care, and emerging digital tools
- Commitment to share the summit with peers who cannot travel — via briefing and open notes

Post-summit briefing commitment

- Within 30 days of return: host a community briefing for CHWs, VHTs, and FairBanks staff
- Publish a simple learning note (English + local-language summary where possible) for partners
- Integrate at least three summit insights into FairBanks outreach plans for Q4 2026
- Present findings to FairBanks Medical Centre leadership and interested district contacts
- Maintain connections made in Berlin through FCHIP and Community Reach partnership channels

Travel & logistics

We understand that complimentary WHS tickets cover summit registration only. FairBanks will self-fund travel, visa, and accommodation for nominated delegates aged 28 or under, as required by the programme. This commitment is documented here — not on the cover page.
